

WEEK THREE

GENESIS 6-8

Noah

SAY THIS:

Trust and obey even when others don't.

REMEMBER THIS:

"The way we show our love is to obey God's commands.
He commands you to lead a life of love.
That's what you have heard from the beginning."

2 JOHN 6, NIrV

DO THIS:

BED TIME

Share about a time when it seemed that no one else was listening to the person in charge. Did you choose to obey anyway? It's extra hard to obey when you're the only one, but God can give you the strength to do it. Noah followed through on what God told him to do for many, many years. Pray together, that God will help you listen to and obey the people in charge this week, even when others don't.

OBEDIENCE:

TRUSTING WHO'S IN CHARGE BY DOING WHAT YOU'RE ASKED TO DO

FROM PARENT CUE:

NOTHING WILL CHANGE HOW MUCH I LOVE YOU

By Sarah Anderson

In parenting, you're often managing the tension between trying to make your child into the best human they can possibly be, and wanting to preserve your relationship and influence in that relationship as best you can. Sometimes these two things work well together, but sometimes they don't. And sometimes we have to make the decision over which takes precedence when they feel at odds.

Our kids will make mistakes. Our teenagers will make bigger ones. Costly ones. Embarrassing ones (to them and to us). And that doesn't mean we don't talk to them and have consequences when they get it wrong. But when the consequence for a bad decision—that goes against our conscience in behavior or identity or relationship—is withholding love and relationship and connection, we are more than doing parenting wrong. We are doing Christianity wrong . . .
